

Council of N:
“Where Paradise begins...”

Paradise ... you speak of Paradise... you want to find Paradise; you want to live in Paradise.... You search for Paradise... and you give it a definite article oftentimes.... So tell us... what is paradise to you?

Is it Hawaii? Is it the US? Is it the Moon?

Is it the land of “milk and honey?”

Is it your home? Is it where your family will join you?

Is it what you consider heaven?

What is paradise – fair question if you keep searching for it ... yes?

So then ... what is it? It’s a Utopia you want to live in, the perfect world, the perfect world with the perfect life according to According to whom? You?

How often have you said ... oh this is paradise? This has to be paradise? It’s just like Paradise? It’s like in heaven? ... and then within a few minutes... a few hours... a few days... did you find something you did not like about your newfound Paradise? Did you identify something that destroyed this place you earlier called “Paradise” as no longer being Paradise?

If so ... yes, that is a rhetorical question because we have been watching you, observing you... studying you... trying to understand your thought process and the way you negate so many beautiful things?

So then.... how did that happen? How did your Paradise become less so or even “hell”?

Funny, isn’t it how Paradise is often equated in your world with “Heaven” and all else ... anything not living up to that standards is often characterized or equaled to “hell” – have you been to either place?

Well, that's what you say but you cannot fully define your version of paradise.... So why not take a deep breath... take some notes... find out what you think Paradise is... then look at your list What's on there? Who's on there? What's missing? Who's missing? Then

You think you've got it... good... 'cause it's your paradise yes?

Now you are creating it... you are taking an active role in your Paradise... that's it... good work... just know that you need to be careful what you're envisioning... anything you put out... we and the rest of Universe hear... we hear it... we respond to it... the way you need us to...

Yes, your' thoughts are prayers are calls and requests to the universe and the universe responds... Here we are then... you have your list ready to crate Paradise.... Now what?

Will you do it/? Likely: no.

You will likely shy away now from truly co=creating or manifesting your paradise... why? Why do you do that to yourself?

Doubt?

Yes... but also there's something... a constant in all your ideas of Paradise and it's opposite... there's one thing all these have in coming, don't they?

What is it? Can you tell what the common denominator is? Can you identify it?

Yes... the one common denominator, the one common thing, the one never changing piece of either puzzle is... YOU!

You are part of any of these places... and you are the one to create to destroy it... either of it. So as much as you long for Paradise or "heaven on Earth" and try to avoid "hell" ... you are the common piece in it all.... That shows you your power of creation!

You are the creating force in all this.... You create your heaven... your paradise... your hell...
If you can follow this... then you are able to realize what you need to do... instead of searching in all corners o of Mother Earth and father Universe for the perfect spot that you would like to call Paradise.. You need to start with yourself... you need to start by “paradising” yourself... then where you are Paradise will be, just like wherever you are no w..... You create your environment.

If you're in Paradise right now... but within seconds, minutes, hours, or days of that identification you find one things you don't like and you now change your identification.... You can and are doing this again and again and again....

You've heard “wherever you do, you will be there” ... then start with yourself. ... Start by working on yourself... you are already perfect but the problem is that you can't understand that... you can't see that... you don't trust that... so you've begun the destruction of the Paradise that is you early on and you are lingering in that space.... Begin with you... inside and out... accept all that you are... then move forward... look at the flower.... Yes, the one outside your house as you walk by ...
nestled in between patches of asphalt.... She's found Paradise ... right there... bathing in the sun... appreciating all around.... Can you do that?

Or do you din an issue with too much sun? Too little sun? Too much rain? Too little rain...

Paradise starts with you... within you ... and that's why you can have Paradise wherever you are or, as you like to say “heaven on Earth” ... it's all in your hands...you either accept this responsibility and possibility or you continue complaining and make your place of earthly existing less than Paradise... your choice... always...

We're here if you'd like more help on creating your own Paradise and beginning within.... Just ask and you shall receive.

Peace, Love, Namaste.
